

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSUREMethod to increase the capacity of a transmission system using waveforms

A method to increase capacity in a transmission system using parallel waveforms comprises several transmitters and at least one receiver. To determine the signal received at the receivers, the method takes account of all the parameters observed on all the sub-carriers of the majority of the receivers or their totality.

Figure 2